Practice Education Facilitators

MARCH 2018

Mentoring is fundamental to patient safety: are you getting it right?
Role of the Practice Education Facilitator

The Practice Education Facilitator (PEF)/ Care Home Education Facilitator (CHEF) role is designed to enhance the quality of the practice learning environment and positively contribute to the current and future Nursing and Midwifery workforce.

The key focus of the PEF/CHEF is to:

• To support the preparation and ongoing professional development of the nursing and midwifery mentor workforce.

• Enhance and support the role of the mentor within the practice placement area.

• Provide robust communication networks between practice placement areas, universities and all other educational institutions who provide healthcare education/training.

• Suggest strategies to enhance the practice placement learning environment for all learners.

• Facilitate education and support for all staff resulting in improved patient care.

What do PEFs do?

• Provide and facilitate mentor update sessions.

• Offer staff mentorship development and support.

• Support practitioners undertaking a Mentor Preparation Programme (MPP).

• Provide advice regarding supporting students in practice.

• Provide information on/education the relevant university nursing and midwifery students’ assessment process.

• Facilitate and manage development and support for ‘mentor led’ education sessions for student nurses and midwives.

• Facilitate and manage the Flying Start Rolling Programme for Newly Qualified Practitioners (NQPs)

• Offer current information on nursing & midwifery education programmes.

• Give support and advice for university practice placement audits.

• Deliver current information on local, regional and national strategies/policies/protocols in nursing & midwifery education.

• Give advice and support on NHS Education for Scotland (NES) initiatives and funded projects.
